

Death Takes Father Anthony B. Paluszack

Greek and Latin Professor Remembered by Many Alumni

Not Enough Steel, But . . .

This year the Christmas shoppers have been constantly annoyed by the numerous shortages. There just wasn't enough steel to be put into a car for Dad, and certainly not enough to be transformed into a toy train and the countless other metal toys for Johnnie and the other little tots. When we went through the interminable list of shortages we got a trifle discouraged until we realized that there was absolutely no shortage of love and prayer.

So we got busy, wrapped this little wish, and bound it tightly with a prayer. To each of the alumni, and his family, we, the faculty and Alumni Staff of St. Joseph's of Indiana, send our most heartfelt wish for a very Merry Christmas and a most prosperous and happy New Year! May the Infant Jesus bless you, and the Prince of Peace bring peace to a tired world.

Christmas Symbols Attractively Done

The Rev. Victor Pax, C.P.P.S., '25-'30, is the author of a twenty-four page brochure entitled Christmas Card Symbols. Attractively done in four-color illustrations, it gives the meaning of Christmas in twelve short explanations, each opposite one of the sketches shown. Old and New Testaments are quoted from.

The Catechetical Guild, 128 E. 10 St., St. Paul 1, Minn., published the brochure, which may be obtained there or from the Messenger Press, Cathagen, Ohio. Single copies are thirty-five cents. Three copies for $1.00.

One of the illustrations, which is used in connection with the thought, "His Coming Was Heralded by Angels," is an artist's conception of St. Joe's twin-towered chapel. Above are two angels announcing the glad tidings, swinging three bells bound together by a red streamer. The snow-covered foreground is dotted with evergreens.

Christmas Card Symbols fills a need. It offsets the purely material

Priestly Work Ends In Crash

A tragic automobile death terminated fourteen years of unselfish priestly work when FATHER LLOYD E. WEBBER, '25-'26, was called to his reward. Shortly after ordination, Father Webber reported to St. Francis De Sales Church, Toledo, Ohio, where he served as assistant pastor until his untimely death.

concept so prevalent, and costs no more than many of the cards that offend so distressingly in this respect without being artistic.

Master of routine intricacies in the Service Department of the Cleveland Diesel Engine Division-General Motors Corporation, is Chief Clerk, Chester B. Kruczek, '26-'31. 2160 Willowdale, Cleveland 9, Ohio, is Chester's home address.

Death came unexpectedly to the Rev. Dr. Anthony Paluszak, C.P.P.S. In the early morning hours of December 2 he was rushed to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, Lafayette. He died there at 11:15 a.m. the same day.

The college chapel was crowded during the Solemn Funeral Mass on December 5. The Mass was read by Father Paluszak's former pastor, the Most Rev. John G. Bennett, bishop of the dioceses of Lafayette. From over the midwest came relatives, monsignori, priests, alumni, and Knights of Columbus to join the faculty and the students in paying last respects to an old friend.

Father Paluszak is best remembered by most alumni as prefect of discipline from September, 1925, until June, 1931. After the latter date he went to Catholic University to study for his doctorate, which he received in 1935. He then returned to the local campus as professor of Greek and Latin.

Father Paluszak was born in Garrett, Ind., 51 years ago. He is survived by three sisters and five brothers. Last May 1 he celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

The priest who had studied at St. Joseph's from 1909 until 1915 was buried at St. Charles Seminary, Carthagen, O., December 6, following a Solemn Funeral Mass there.

Leslie Plays Softly Patricia Says, 'I Do'

"Leslie Ham — The Saxophone Man," patiently thumbed through an album of songs of yesteryear, found a selection, brought his famous saxophone to his lips, and then with tender feeling, pianissimo, and well-placed cadenzas thrown in, played: "We Could Make Such Beautiful Music Together," to Miss Patricia Louise Morris.

She agreed, and St. John's Church, Whiting, Ind., was the scene chosen for the exchange of vows, with Father John M. Lefko, C.P.P.S., '27-'32, pastor officiating.

Thus did John Leslie Henrikson, '32-'36, add another dramatic chapter to his story of many accomplishments under the dateline of Thanksgiving Day, November 28, 1946. Best wishes are streaming into 658 Campbell Circle, Hapeville, Georgia.

Assistant pastor of St. Therese parish, Louisville, Ky., since his ordination in 1940, the Rev. Joseph L. Allgeier, '28-'34, enrolled at the Catholic University of America in September. He is pursuing courses in Canon Law.

John Feicht Happy; Back In Education

A Canton, Ohio Puma booster, John Feicht, '40-'43, is happy to be back in education again after his months in the Southwest Pacific and with the army of occupation in Japan. John received his Bachelor of Science degree in physical education.

He is teaching at Augusta High School, twenty-five miles from his home at 1433 Eighteenth St., N. W., Canton 3, Ohio. English classes, a general business course, and three classes in physical education occupy his time when he isn't coaching. The school has no football; basketball and baseball are the major sports.

Three times in one week John acted as emergency driver of the school bus. Young America evidently trusts itself to him without reserve. He reverses the usual order of things by spending his weeks in the country and his weekends in the city.

Secretary Points To Growth

It was December 2, 1946. A few miles north of Rensselaer, U. S. Highway 53 was speedily slipping under our car like a giant conveyor belt in a post-war industrial assembly line. Suddenly, the eye was attracted to the skyline as the famous water tower climbed high above the trees to extend its warm welcome in bold letters spelling: "St. Joseph's College." That has happened to each of you many times in the past.

There was a tug at the heart, and then a warm, inexpressible feeling. You would know about that, too. That was it. I was going back to St. Joe. On the campus the same matchless spirit that has permeated the four corners of this expansive America in the past fifty-five years, is evident everywhere. It seems to say: "I've been waiting for you! Where have you been?"

But, something is happening to St. Joseph's, something that you and I, and every son of St. Joseph's College has been hoping for. St. Joseph's is growing. St. Joseph's is growing physically, academically, and most important, St. Joseph's is growing spiritually.

The most pointed indication of its physical growth, greater than the beautiful, modern buildings and halls that have risen on the campus, was the need of a national secretary of the Alumni Association. Here were stark, unyielding facts: as St. Joseph's grew, so grew her loyal, grateful alumni. Everywhere, like a huge network, the beneficent influence of American citizens trained in the arts and sciences of unexcelled standards at St. Joseph's College was eagerly welcomed in this democracy.

The honor has fallen to me. More than mere honor, it is a rare blessing to serve St. Joseph's and her cherished alumni. To St. Joseph's it is not enough to turn out men well schooled, well trained, into a world that mercilessly shatters the first-laid ideals of young men. The job is not done; the job is never done while St. Joseph's can, and will, constantly extend an understanding, helping hand to its alumni.

This then, is my job, to do whatever might conceivably be required by the alumni or thought desirable by St. Joseph's. I know that I can rely

Exit Mice And Bats

Not much has been written in CONTACT about the building which is under renovation to house the alumni office of the next several or many years, furnish rooms for editing and mailing the campus publications, and provide a post office large enough that each student and faculty member may have his own private mailbox.

The work was begun in June as one of a number of summer (as was hoped) improvements. This work is now nearing completion. Here's the story.

Everyone remembers the old boiler house, which stands about midway between Dwenger Hall and the laundry. After the new power plant was built in 1921, the substantial, rambling structure was used as a storehouse for lawn tools, lumber, and bric-a-brac that no one wanted and yet no one had the courage to throw away. Mice and bats scampered and flitted about with ghoulish glee.

Junkman Gathers Bric-a-Brac

Came the summer. Came, too, the junkman's truck, which carted away load after load of scrap. The rat-tat-tat of air hammers carved out walls that were not needed and razed the coal sheds to the rear flat with the ground.

Each day since has seen some progress, slight at times because needed materials was slow in arriving. But now the completed renovation is in sight. Plasterers have moved out! Carpenters are rushing the finishing, except for doors, which cannot be purchased at present. The rooms will remain doorless temporarily.

Security Council Not Needed

No one can say just yet what day will go down in history as moving day, but it should be decided without recourse to the Security Council before the end of the first semester. A group of alumni who call after that date will find a rather spacious office in which to relax as they spin a yarn about Bro. "Cobb" or some other unforgettable. We hope there will be many such groups dropping in and returning often.

Plan Old-English Appointments

The downstairs space lends itself very well to carrying out an old-English scheme of decorations and appointments. Henry V might have gone through just such a door, down just such a flight of steps when, as Crown Prince, he cavorted nightly with Falstaff.

Upstairs a narrow corridor divides the space east and west in half. Along the west side are two rooms, one for the address plates, addressograph, and graphotype; the other, for mailing. On the east side of the corridor is a staff office for Measure and one for Phase. At the end of the corridor is a long, narrow room which will serve as a newsroom for the campus weekly, Stuff, and a classroom for journalism.

Immediately below the journalism room is the post office.

on the assistance and cooperation of each alumnus. In this work there is, unmistakably, an exhilarating ideal: Serve St. Joseph's and her alumni, while serving Catholicity!

Sincerely,

Paul Monastyrski

Next Year's Crop Eye Oldsters Now

Seniors of '47, who will enter the ranks of alumni on the day of their graduation, are looking up to their older brothers at the moment. Deep in the work of editing and publishing the 1946-'47 volume of PHASE, college yearbook, the seniors have requested permission to use the alumni mailing list to obtain patrons. Permission was not granted.

However, we did promise them that we would make known their request via the editorial page of CONTACT. Some there are, no doubt, who really want a copy of the annual. Attractively bound, and filled with pictures of students, faculty, and campus scenes, PHASE will embellish any library or office table. There's nothing better than a picture story to keep that inner fire burning warm. And there's nothing better either to show that eighteen-year-old across the street, who is seriously looking for the best college to attend.

Returns from the seniors' mail campaign for patrons have been excellent; the boys boast that twenty per cent of 500 persons approached sent in from five to twenty-five dollars each. Anyone who wishes to match or top that will receive, sometime in May at the latest, a volume of PHASE.

All requests must be in on or before January 10, for the cover manufacturers must be notified by the middle of January to make additional covers if more are needed.

(Ed. Written without coercion and without promise of a cut!)

Todd Duncan, Negro baritone, will present a concert here December 16. The former professor of music at Howard University starred as Porgy in George Gershwin's musical success PORGY AND BESS. He has made concert tours in England, South America and Australia and has had some experience in opera.

News Of Graduates From Far And Near Filters Thru

With his questionnaire and very generous gift to the Alumni Sustaining Fund, Mr. Adolph E. Soucie, '16-'19, sent a note that his son Joseph aged nineteen died Aug. 20 of this year. Joseph had been discharged from the Navy on July 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Soucie live at West Champaign, Rantoul, Ill., and own and operate a Royal Blue store at 112 E. Sangamon there. The K. of C's claim Mr. Soucie's membership as does the Chamber of Commerce.

The Alphonse J. Siefkers of 6018 McPherson, St. Louis 12, Mo., have a baby girl, Judith Marie, since Nov. 12. Originally from Columbus, Ohio, A. J. Siefker, '20-'26, is a chemist in the research laboratory of Anheuser-Bush, Inc., St. Louis.

Drinking in the liquid sunshine of Southern California, while attending USLA, Jerry A. Beck, '43-'46, writes that he is a mechanic during his spare time at the Abbott Motor Clinic. Jerry is a graduate of St. Joe's High School Department and his present address is 10449 Holman Avenue, Los Angeles 24, California.

Serving his friends and neighbors as Administrative Assistant in the Louisville Department of Public Welfare occupies the working hours of George L. Sheehan, '34-'38. George has settled into the quietude of his home at 221 Fairfax Avenue, Louisville 7, Kentucky, after what he terms a "soft deal" as bombardier on a B-24 in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater.

The Monarch Machine Toll Co. lists Leo J. Hess, '35-'37, as a machinist. Leo is at home with his wife and two daughters and can be reached by addressing a letter to Carthage, Ohio.

The United States Marine Corps marked this date down on its calendar: September 17, 1946, and was happy, for that was the day it secured the services of another St. Joe man. That man is now known as Pvt. Robert E. Stephens, '44-'46, and all his mail follows him to Plt. 365, 2nd. Rec. Bn. Recruit Depot, Parris Island, S. C.

After five years of action in the Asiatic-Pacific and Philippine campaigns, acquiring an enviable string of decorations, Urban (Sid) Anderson, '35-'37, has settled down in a luxurious fox-hole in the offices of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co. in Ft. Wayne. Sid's fired enthusiasm for his work has relegated the memory of war's daily hazards far into the background. A word from his friends labeled 651 W. Fourth St., Ft. Wayne 7, Ind., will always reach Sid's attention.

Absence makes the heart grow fonder, but we are sure that fondness for St. Joe was always a strong characteristic in Fathers Andrew J. Pollack, '25-'29, and George J. Lubeley, '35-'39, Fathers of the Precious Blood studying Sacred Theology at the University of Fribourg, Fribourg, Switzerland. Ever since they crossed the Atlantic they have had oceans of appreciation for CONTACT, which reaches them regularly. Remember, Fathers, it's not liturgical to yodel.

On the faculty of St. Joseph Preparatory School, Bardstown, Ky., is Father Michael K. Lally, '29-'30. Father writes that he enjoyed his welcomed visit at Collegeville last summer.

Paul R. Kuebler, '35-'37, a Sales Coordinator for Vickers, Inc., in the Motor City, up Michigan way, is studying engineering in night school. 327 E. Hazelhurst, Ferndale 20, Michigan, is the place Paul and family call home.

Accountant for the Willys Overland Co. reads the note from Raymond H. Stallkamp, '06-'08, of 358 W. Delaware Ave., Toledo 10, Ohio. He was the first to send in a suggestion for naming the building that houses the library and all the et ceteras. His choice, "Falter Center," may be kept for a new building to be erected in time as a memorial to all the heroes of the late war.

"It has been quite some time since I last visited St. Joe; I hope it will not be too long before I can call again," concludes Mr. Stallkamp.

An enthusiastic alumnus in the far west is Stanley Arnold, '17-'21, of 2898 Jackson, San Francisco 15, Calif. Stanley is earnestly plying the books at University of California's College of Law.

Thomas C. Burger, '42-'44, is attending the University of St. Louis medical school. 3652 Blaine Ave., St. Louis 10 is his home address.

For the past month and until further notice, Edward R. Fleming, '38-'42, is reached at 633 Federal Building, Louisville 2, Ky.

If you are in the neighborhood of Fostoria, Ohio, and need any printing done, stop in at the Lonsway Printery. Proprietor—Eugene C. Lonsway, '99-'04. He belongs to the Knights of Columbus, the Fraternal Order of Eagles, the United Commercial Travelers, Sportsmen, and not least, the Holy Name Society.

Mr. Lonsway is a firm supporter of the Mono Printer Union because of its advantage to the operator of the one-man printing shop. As campus friends he lists the Scharfs—Father and Coach.

Contributing to the health and morale of the citizens of the surrounding area, is Dr. Carl J. Heitz, '36-'40, who is a resident physician at St. Rita's Hospital, Lima, Ohio. Dr. Heitz served as a Navy Medical Corps Lieutenant for thirty-five and a half months in the Asiatic-Pacific Theater. A letter addressed to 823½ W. Market St., Lima, Ohio, will reach the doctor.

The annual Christmas concert will be presented December 17. The choir and the glee club, of more than 100 voices, will be under direction of the Rev. Lawrence Heiman, C.P.P.S., and the band will be under direction of Prof. Paul Tonner.

The program is to bring the Christmas spirit to Collegeville for the holiday season, which will extend from noon December 20 until the first class on January 6.

Having acquired an impressive background in post-graduate work at the University of Notre Dame, the Catholic University of America, and the University of Virginia, Father Thomas H. Grotenrath, C.P.P.S., '25-'28, is now principal of the Immaculate Conception High School, Celina, Ohio. Moderator of the Sanguinist Club while on St. Joe's faculty, Father Tom sends his best wishes for success to Father Joseph Scheuer, C.P.P.S., '34-'38, the present moderator of the organization.

Rev. Warren C. Abrahamson, '26-'31, who is assistant pastor at 2491 N. Murray Ave., Milwaukee, 11, Wis., has been very busy amassing scholastic achievements. He received his Master's Degree at St. Francis Seminary, Milwaukee, and has done graduate work at Marquette University and the University of Wisconsin.

Richard W. Hermann, '41-'44, Academy, didn't join the Marines to learn the meaning of the motto, "Semper Fidelis." At the Second Recruit Battalion, Recruit Depot, Marine Barracks, Parris Island, S. C., the Pfc is biding his time, longing to be back at St. Joe as a college freshman.

"Tell Fathers Zanolar, Laudick, Nieset, and—it would take effort to name them all—that some weekend I intend to visit St. Joe." Thus Norbert L. Gerlach, '24-'26, of 607 S. Jefferson St., Dayton 2, Ohio.

As a master sergeant in the U. S. Army Air Force engaged in stock control in the European theater of operations, Norb spent three years. During this time, he says, CONTACT came to him regularly.

After 25 months in the Service, it is now once again, Mr. John L. Wolford, '38-'44, at 3932 Dixie Highway, Shively, Ky. In his correspondence, John proffers an earnest plea for continued prayers for all servicemen, and expresses a commendable interest in his Alma Mater.

If it's food for the tummy, or food for thought in the form of heartwarming stories about good ole St. Joe, drop in at the BOB ALLGEIER'S MARKETS, 1332 Taylor St., Ft. Wayne, Ind. Robert F. Allegeier, '27-'29, the busy proprietor, is active in the K. of C., the Chamber of Commerce, Ft. Wayne Food Council, and is president of the Ft. Wayne Chapter of St. Joseph's Alumni Association. His home address is 4716 Indiana Avenue, Ft. Wayne 6, Ind.

If you have been slightly harried by soap shortages and the plea for used fats, Norbert M. Schuck, '18-'22, is the man who might allay your vexations by answering any questions on the soapless situation. Norbert M. Schuck is a chemist at the Proctor & Gamble Co., Ivorydale, Ohio, and his home address is R. 2, Box 335, Ludlow, Ky.

Joseph H. Seyfried, '12-'16, is a Captain in the U. S. Navy. Enlisting in the Navy Aug. 1, 1918, he remained in service at the end of World War I. On shore duty now, his address is: Ship Ins. Mat., 602 Federal Office Bldg., Seattle 4, Washington.

Artfully sketching a tantalizing dish of Boston-browned beans may some day deliciously occupy the work days of Louis E. Appelhans, '40-'43. He is now very busy learning the tricks of the trade with a paint brush at the Vesper George School of Art in Boston.

Robert E. Johnson, '41-'42, originally of Ft. Wayne, Ind., and Miss Caroline Johnson of St. Paul, Minn., were married Oct. 19. They live in Detroit.

Active in the Knights of Columbus, County, State, and National Medical Societies, is Dr. Wayland B. Recker, '15-'19. Dr. Recker and family are at home at Leipsic, Ohio.

Basketball Squad Grass-Green But Coach Believes In Them

St. Joseph's College returned to intercollegiate basketball competition with a squad that is as green as a St. Patrick's Day tie. Although four freshmen and a sophomore compose the starting lineup, Art Cosgrove, new Puma coach, is optimistic. He believes that the squad has everything except experience, and he knows that will come in time.

The Pumas opened the season with a 68-65 victory over Chicago Teachers. They lost the next two. Valparaiso beat them 81-53; Huntington edged them out 68-23. They returned to the victory side of the ledger by drubbing Hanover 72-46. Then they lost again to Illinois Wesleyan 52-60.

The St. Joe Academy Cubs, who feature only one man from last year's starting lineup, got off to a bad start by suffering a defeat at the hands of Fair Oaks high school. They staged a comeback, however, by downing Morgan Park Military Academy of Chicago but lost to Brook.

The Pumas have two more pre-

Christmas games: Dec. 13, at Indiana State; Dec. 18, at Illinois Normal.

The Cubs also have two more before the holidays: Dec. 13, at Knox; Dec. 17, at Sacred Heart, Indianapolis.

Only one home basketball game was scheduled before Jan. 13, when Huntington play a return engagement. The game with Hanover Dec. 6 was moved to Morocco because baskets ordered had not arrived and the steel for the permanent bleachers had not come in.

Both squads have been at a disadvantage; their practice sessions have been under adverse conditions.

Dream Of Father Schuerman Nears Completion In Library

One summer improvement that is nearing completion is the library. Painters are still at work, and craftsmen are expected momentarily to put up sound-proof ceilings over the charging desk and the specious reading room. Otherwise, the construction work is finished.

The Rev. Clarence J. Schuerman, C.P.P.S., librarian, drew the plans that experts in library designing pronounce excellent. The expansion allows for an increase of 100,000 volumes.

Students before 1914 recall the room on the second floor of the Main Building. More often locked than unlocked, it contained all the books not in possession of the C.L.S., which had its own special room down the hall and boasted of a large collection.

Students Avoid Heights

Then came the gym fire in 1913, and the large building replacing it a year later, with a stack and a reading room three flights up. Students would climb into nigger heaven to see a fight; they didn't mind the books enough. The library came down to meet them, stopping on the first floor of the south wing of the same building.

A Vision Becomes Real

Not all young men limit themselves to dreaming dreams. Some, and Father Schuerman is one of them, envision and bring forth to culmination. Besides several students who work part time, he has three assistants—the Rev. Gerard Lutkemeier and Anthony Gamble, and Bro. Philip.

What was the basketball floor beneath the auditorium is now a stackroom for books, with alcoves along the outside walls for private study.

Michael F. Moloney On Marquette Staff

Michael F. Moloney, Ph. D., '18-'20, is teaching in the English Department of Marquette University graduate and undergraduate school this year. With a yen for literature, Dr. Moloney has specialized in this subject always.

Coming to St. Joe in 1918 from the neighboring high school at Tefft, Ind., he browsed among the literature books available unceasingly while here. Then he spent some time at St. Viator's college, receiving his A. B., and became a high school teacher.

Still later he was at Illinois University, where in 1944 he received his doctorate of philosophy. His dissertation at the time bore the title, John Donne—His Flight from Mediaevalism. Inscribing a volume of his dissertation, he presented it to the library. The inscription, "To the St. Joseph's College Library where, unknowingly, this book was begun," is signed: Michael F. (Chink) Moloney.

Dr. Moloney's field of specialization in English is the Renaissance period. He contributes articles to such magazines as America and Thought. In Milwaukee, he lives at 2426 N. Cramer St., Zone 11.

A student at the Eastern Illinois State Teachers College, John P. Beall, '41-'43, writes that he enjoys each issue of CONTACT. John spent 33 months in the army and was awarded 5 battle stars for service in the E. T. O. His address is 404 N. 22nd St., Mattoon, Illinois.

W. H. Corvington '43 Practices Dentistry In U. S. Navy Office

When Walter H. Corvington, '42-'43, completed his preparation for dentistry, he re-enlisted in the Navy. His home is at 87 S. Meadowcroft Dr., Akron 3, Ohio. As a Lieutenant (jg) he was stationed at the Dental Dispensary, Parris Island, S. C., when last we heard from him.

Walter came to St. Joe for the second semester of the 1941-'42 scholastic year. He left after three semesters to enter the Navy under the V-7 training program. When he had completed all but three months of his dentistry training, he was released from active duty and placed in the reserves. The remaining three months he finished at Loyola University, Chicago, where he received his D.D.S.

The young navy lieutenant and his wife Elaine Violet have three children—a pair of twins, Wally and Winnie, and another boy aged six months.

"My regards to the faculty," Walter wrote Oct. 3. "I want to let you know that I truly appreciate all you have done in building the foundation for my future success. I hold St. Joe deep in my heart and will always be grateful."

"Appeasement toward the Soviet Union will not prevent war; it will make war unavoidable," said Dr. Waldemar Gurian in opening the Commerce Club Lecture Series here December 9.

The Russian-born Professor of Political Science at Notre Dame and editor of REVIEW OF POLITICS explained that the Soviets would regard a policy of continuous concessions only as a proof of weakness.

He pointed out that a policy of firmness in recent months has had some results.

Team Collects 188 Points Enters Championship Playoff

Amassing an almost incredible 188 points to the opponents' 13, Brother Henry T. Kosalko, C.P.P.S., '34-'41, brings his St. Anthony Teutons to the annual city championship playoff in Detroit's Briggs Stadium for the second time in his three years as coach of the Teutons.

In accomplishing this remarkable feat, Bro. Henry brought an unbeaten, untied team through seven straight games, confounding all opposition with a style of play alternating between the T-formation with man in motion and the famous Notre Dame Box.

The St. Anthony Teutons with Bro. Henry at the helm have caused no little stir in the Motor City which has seen many fine teams in the past. Bro. Henry and his power aggregation have been eagerly sought for interviews and feature stories in Detroit's metropolitan newspapers, and Bro. Henry has appeared on various radio programs in that city.

Brother Henry T. Kosalko entered the Congregation of the Precious Blood in February, 1934, and immediately reported to St. Joe to complete his formal schooling. While attending school he earned letters in football and basketball; upon graduation he assumed his duties as head baseball and track coach, and line coach in football.

When the war put an end to the impressive 21 consecutive game victory march that won for St. Joe its second straight Indiana State Conference title, Bro. Henry was transferred to St. Anthony's in Detroit where his winning habit has built great High School teams and rightfully won wide acclaim for his coaching prowess, adding to the fame of St. Joseph's of Indiana.

Boy Scouts Engage Father L. J. Ernst

An assistant pastor of St. Ann's parish, Fremont, Ohio, The Rev. Lawrence J. Ernst, '26-'32, is actively engaged in Boy Scout work. He edits "We, the Scouts," department of the Catholic Boy magazine. At present he is serving as a special National Field Scout Commissioner. He was awarded the Silver Beaver for his outstanding service to boyhood in the Toledo area this year.

TIFFIN, Ohio.—The Rev. Joseph O'Leary, curate at St. Aloysius Church, Bowling Green, has been appointed assistant at St. Joseph's parish here. A native of Toledo, Father O'Leary was educated at St. Joseph's College from 1931 to 1934 before going to St. Gregory Seminary, Cincinnati. His appointment became effective Nov. 26.
